DEFINITIONS

- THEATER

Chairs are arranged in rows at the head table, where the stage or speaker is to be located. It maximizes space in the meeting room. The theater works well when the audience has to take a few notes.

- SCHOOL

Tables are arranged in rows with 2 or 3 chairs each. This setting allows for support material and helps with note-taking.

- U-TYPE

Tables are arranged in a rectangular shape with open space (U-type) at the center. Chairs are arranged on the outer side of tables.

- BANQUET

Round tables with 8 or 10 chairs each, this setting is used when catering services are required.

- COCKTAIL

A social standing event (no seats) where beverages and snacks are served. Food may be left at small buffet tables or served by waiters. This room has been designed to promote interaction among the audience. High tables are arranged throughout the room with a few chairs or no chairs at all. Some chairs are arranged along the edges of the room. This room may be used before food servings.

- ROUND TABLE

This setting may be used with 8 or 10 chairs, or half-moon setting with 6 chairs. This type of setting is used for school events with no catering.

- SPIKE

Chairs or tables are arranged in V-shaped rows separated by a central aisle, with focus on the head table or speaker.
